One of the curiosities of the republican national convention will be the delegate whose seat is not contested.

MISS ANNE MORGAN, it is said, has arranged to have New York working girls taught jiu jitsu. That would be the proper answer to cheap Johnnies who insult working girls.

MEXICAN rebels cannot hope to do more than make a living at their trade for a year or two. Divided into small bands, each with a general in command, they can be depended upon to be held together by the cohesive power of plunder when they are in the field, but let them have a temporary success and each general would nominate himself for president and rebellions against the rebellion would at once break out. An insurrection with out a living, vital principle back of it doesn't stand any show to be more than a combination of a street riot and a march of a Coney army.

A RECENT demonstration of the economies effected by putting electricity to work "doing the chores" of the farm showed that electric power can supplant human muscle in this field quite as well as the electric light can supplant the old, oil-dripping kerosene lantern. The generator, driven by an oil engine, supplied current for an outfit of motors for an automatic pump for the farm water supply, a centrifugal pump for irrigation and available for fire purposes also, a dairy installation (free from the dust thrown by belts and shafting) consisting of a refrigerating machine, also a milk cooler, a cream separator, an automatic churn and butter worker, a bottle washer, and an ice-cream freezer, an electric truck, a large threshing machine, corn sheller and feed choppers, laundry machinery, milking machines, silo filler, flexible shaft sheep shearer and horse and cattle groomer, ventilating fans and household equipment, including cooking devices.

A SPECIAL application of the telephone has come into use in the announcing of the departure and arrival of trains in railroad stations. The official who announces the outgoing trains speaks into a special water-cooled telephone transmitter installed in a booth conveniently placed and from which his voice is telephonically transmitted and reproduced in no less than sixteen loudspeaking receivers with amplifying horns connected in multiple and distributed throughout the waiting rooms. Incoming trains are announced from the same transmitter by throwing a switch to connect a separate circuit of ten of the loudspeaking receivers installed on the track levels below the waiting room floor. By this indirect telephone method a single announcement serves for all the waiting rooms. The articulation is simultaneously reproduced, with equal volume of sound, in all the receivers, and by installing several receivers at equal distances in each of the large enclosed spaces which make up the waiting rooms, the enunciation in exact unison not only fills the space, but obviates the confusion of echoes.

THE most destructive disaster at sea that has ever occurred was when the Titanic, newest and largest vessel afloat, sank about 2:30 Monday morning, on its virgin trip to New York. At full speed the vessel struck a submerged iceberg at 10:30 o'clock Sunday night, being so badly damaged that it sank four hours later. There were 2,216 persons aboard, 1,350 passengers and a crew of 866. Of these only 868 were taken off in boats, and consisting mostly of women and children. The passenger list contained more notable persons than were probably ever carried by one vessel on a trip, and the wealth represented was half a billion dollars. Men prominent in all lines were lost, and sorrow has been caused in all quarters of the globe.

Indigestion.
The stomach is a patient organ; it usually does its duty without complaint, even when outrageously abused. But once its patience is tried too far, and it acquires the pernicious habit, no amount of placating will quiet it.

No patient is so dreaded by the doctor as the chronic dyspeptic. In the first place, he does not always find it easy to determine just where the fault lies. On the one hand, the symptoms may not suggest stomach trouble at all; the patient may be convinced that his heart is at fault, and even the doctor may be deceived at first into the same belief by the palpitation, shortness of breath, giddiness, and pain in the left side, although these are not infrequent signs of a rebellious stomach. On the other hand, the symptoms of indigestion may be due not to any fault in the stomach itself, but to a reflex disturbance excited by eye-strain, spinal disease, or some other trouble in a part remote from the digestive apparatus.

In a case of chronic indigestion, the first thing to do is to make sure that it is not due to any of these causes. The next thing is to determine whether there is serious disease of the stomach, such as ulcer or tumor. In most cases of "heartburn" or "acidity," there is no organic trouble—merely a failure on the part of the stomach to empty itself promptly, and perhaps a defect in the gastric juice that allows the contents of the stomach to ferment. Very simple measures often suffice to give relief, such as the sipping of a glass of water half an hour or so after meals, or a gentle rubbing of the abdomen just below the ribs on the left side, which causes the stomach to contract and empty its contents into the intestines.

The diet should be regulated, foods hard to digest should be avoided, and the meals should be taken at the same time each day, and at not too frequent intervals. Of course constipation, if present should be corrected, and some simple stomachic may be necessary. But if the heartburn does not yield to the treatment suggested, the physician had better be consulted, for the condition may be serious.

In Prison

(Copyright, 1911, by Associated Literary Press)

"What's the matter, sir?" queried the old "trusty" who was sweeping out the warden's private office. He asked the question of a young man who had come in from the corridor. The latter, like the trusty, wore a gray shirt—gray in Menlo prison is the badge of good behavior—though of slightly different cut. He was a personable chap, lithe, vigorous and erect, on this side of thirty. Now he breathed heavily, as if from recent exertion, his hair was rumpled, and from a cut beneath his right eye blood was flowing.

"The deputy warden hit me and I fell against the corner of the window ledge," he panted.

Neither noticed a young girl who had come to the door of the public office, and had heard the young man's answer.

Now her little hands were clenched; her expressive face wore a mingled look of pity and indignation. She came swiftly into the room.

"Tardon me, but did I hear you say the deputy warden struck you?"

"Yes, ma'am," answered the young man, as he applied a handkerchief to his injury.

"And they say this is a model prison!" was her spirited comment. "I'd like your name and number—please, and a full description of the deputy's attack upon you."

"Why, ma'am?" queried the young man.

"I am my mother's private secretary. She is Mrs. Campbell Bannerman, chairman of the prison committee of the State Federation of Woman's Clubs."

The young man's quiet humility changed to lively concern. "You mustn't, you know!" he cried. "That wouldn't do at all. Please don't mention a word of what I told you!"

"Why?" queried the girl.

"Oh, because I—" began the young man, and checked himself. He became the model prisoner again. "It might be better for me, ma'am," he said quietly.

"I understand. They would seek to revenge themselves if they knew you were here. But I want you to promise one thing please."

"I'll promise you anything!" assured the young man.

"It's only this," she replied hastily, confused a bit by the look in his eyes. "If they threaten you again, write me at Eyredale—Ethel Bannerman."

She opened her bag, fumbled in a tiny pocketbook and produced a silver dollar.

"It's all the money I have here," timidly. "Mamma has enough for both of us. Please take it."

With a sudden impulse she offered her hand. He took it, gently, his warm palm met her own. She smiled faintly in farewell, but there were tears in her eyes.

"It was all wrong to deceive her that way," said the young man, to his own reflection in the mirror, when she had gone. "But I couldn't let her go and forget me. I had to get her interested. Now, I wonder if she'll forgive me when she finds out?"

"She's a good little girl, and a mighty sweet one, too. Why, she wanted to cry over my troubles." He paused for a moment, in glowing boyish awe. "By Jove, I must see her again. Now to say to Mrs. Bannerman."

He plunged into the making of a speedy toilet.

Two hours later the visit of the officers and prominent committee members of the state federation was over. The president, Mrs. Lucretia Lorne Hammond, rode back to the city in the same automobile with Mrs. Bannerman and her daughter.

"A visit to a prison is a saddening experience," remarked Mrs. Hammond, with the conviction of the public speaker; "so many hopeless faces, so many broken hearts."

"I noticed one queer thing in there—and it's supposed to be a model institution. I met a young prisoner in the corridor with a bad cut on his face. He looked as if he'd been fighting. Do you suppose they still have corporal punishment here in spite of their denials?"

Ethel Bannerman leaned forward with eager, wide open eyes, her lips parted. Mrs. Hammond smiled. "Was he a tall young man with a gray shirt?"

"I believe he was," replied Mrs. Hammond.

"Handsome; brown-eyed?"

"I couldn't tell about his eyes; I suppose he might be called handsome," admitted Mrs. Hammond, anxiously.

"That isn't a prisoner. That's Gerald Primrose, a member of the prison board. He's here because there's a meeting of the board today. The governor appointed him because he's wealthy and can give his time and thought to prison problems. Warden Stone speaks very highly of him."

"He seems rather peculiar," commented Mrs. Hammond. "I think I saw him again, just as we were leaving. He had changed to his ordinary attire. He was holding a silver dollar in his hand, and looking at it like a miser. Why, he acted as though he wanted to eat it!"

"Ethel, you look as happy as a bride," she observed presently.

"I am happy," Ethel replied, with a sigh of content. "And this has been a delightful day!"

THE LINE OF THE SPINE

shown above is the curved line which truthfully presents to your eye the condition of your spine if you use a sewing machine.

The reason for this is the family sewing machine as ordinarily constructed, is altogether wrong. You cannot sit straight in your chair while operating your machine—try it, sit straight and square as you should, and see if you can sew on your machine; you can't. The needle is 4 1/2 inches from the center where it ought to be. To follow your work you have to twist your body to the left. This twist calls for a wrench and strain of all the delicate chords and ligaments, affecting stomach, spleen, liver, kidney, bowels and nerves, and resulting in SIDE NEEDLE STIFFNESS.

If it were possible for a growing child to operate an ordinary sewing machine, it would be injured for life. The soft cartilage of its spine would twist and warp, its vital organs would be injured to such an extent as to produce nervous disorders.

In factories where sewing machines are used, the work is always directly central with the operator, otherwise they could not stand the strain of the twist of the body and continue to work.

THE STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE MACHINE is a new type of family sewing machine designed as a health saver and preventer of doctors' bills.

In this machine the needle is central with the work—directly over the center of the body. To use it call for no twist of the spine, it causes no strain on the internal organs and consequent tortures of the nerves.

With THE STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE machine a woman is safe in using it all day and every day, without tiring or straining. Compare the two pictures—positions taken from life—and decide which you will have—THE SIDE NEEDLE SPINE or THE CENTRAL NEEDLE SPINE.

We have printed a valuable book, "A SKELETON IN THE SIDE," which is yours FREE for the asking—and every intelligent woman will want it and will thank us for bringing it to her attention.

It goes into the subject of sewing machine construction thoroughly and explains how and why the STANDARD CENTRAL NEEDLE SEWING MACHINE is vital to the health of woman and growing girls, and how easy it is to buy. It tells you the health and the health of your daughters—you will send for a copy at once—no obligation. It is FREE. A postal will bring it by return mail.

A Clean Man

Outside cleanliness is less than half the battle. A man may scrub himself a dozen times a day, and still be unclean. Good health means cleanliness not only outside, but inside. It means a clean stomach, clean bowels, clean blood, a clean liver, and new, clean, healthy tissues. The man who is clean in this way will look it and act it. He will work with energy and think clean, clear, healthy thoughts. He will never be troubled with liver, lung, stomach or blood disorders. Dyspepsia and indigestion originate in unclean stomachs. Blood diseases are found where there is unclean blood. Consumption and bronchitis mean unclean lungs.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery

prevents these diseases. It makes a man's insides clean and healthy. It cleans the digestive organs, makes pure, clean blood, and cleans, healthy flesh.

It restores tone to the nervous system, and cures nervous exhaustion and prostration. It contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs. Constipation is the most unclean uncleanliness. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets cure it. They never gripe. Easy to take as candy.

Depot Telephone Taken Out.

There is now no telephone at the depot. The Cumberland people have for many years supplied a phone free at the station, but recently decided that they had as much right to get revenue from this as any other service supplied, and notified the railroad company to that effect. The I. C. officials did not see their way clear to pay for this convenience to the public, so last Thursday the telephone was removed. It is working a hardship on a vast number of persons, particularly people out in the country, who have business with the agents, and now have to come personally and attend to it. It is likely that the service will be restored, the public paying the rental.

BRONCHITIS

To Whom It May Concern
I have, for 15 years, been afflicted with chronic bronchitis and a consequent run-down condition. I received no benefit from doctors or from a trip which I took for my health, and I had to give up work. Vinol was recommended, and from the second bottle I commenced to improve. I gained in weight and strength, my bronchial trouble disappeared, and I am at work again.
It is the combined action of the curative elements of the cods' livers, aided by the blood-purifying and strength-giving properties of the iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in curing bronchitis. Vinol is a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds, bronchitis and pulmonary troubles—not a palliative like cough syrups.
Try Vinol. If you don't think it helps you, we will return your money.

JOHN X. TAYLOR, DRUGGIST,

JEPHTHA C. JONSON.

Judge Jephtha C. Jonson, aged 78 years and 7 months, died at his home at 7 o'clock April 10, of anemia, following confinement of about four months. On account of his advanced age it was impossible to overcome the disease, and for some time it had been realized that recovery was improbable. He was the oldest member of the bar here, and one of the leading lawyers. He was born in Daviess county, and lived there until he reached manhood, when he moved to Arkansas, and at the breaking out of the war joined the Confederate forces, rising to the rank of Colonel; was captured at the battle of Helena, and carried a prisoner to Johnson's Island, where he spent some months. Following the war he lived in Arkansas a few years, returning to his home State, and living many years in Calhoun, in the practice of his profession. In October, 1892, he moved with his family here, joining Judge W. A. Wickliffe in the firm of Jonson & Wickliffe. He entered fully into all matters pertaining to the development of the county and town, and on every question was on the side of morality and at right.

He was County Judge of McLean county, and also the delegate to the constitutional convention in 1890.

Funeral services were held at the home at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon, conducted by his pastor, Rev. G. P. Dillon, and by Rev. W. C. Hayes. Hon. W. E. Sandilge adjourned the special term of circuit court, and the members of the local bar, as well as visiting attorneys, joined the large number of friends who gathered to show this mark of esteem and respect. The body was carried to McLean county, and after a short service at the grave side, at 3 o'clock Friday afternoon, was deposited in the family lot beside his wife and two infant children. Surviving are two daughters, Mrs. Dr. Henry Thibault, of Scotts, Ark., and Miss Jamie Jonson, of this city, and two sons, Mr. W. C. Jonson, of this city, and Mr. J. A. Jonson, of Madisonville.

His greatest honor is that he lived a Christian life, and long will he live in the memory of a wide circle of friends.

Circuit Court.

Muhlenberg circuit court convened in regular April term at 1:30 o'clock last Monday. Judge Sandilge organized the court, and one of his first actions was to instruct the grand jury and direct the members to their room, where work was at once started. The special term of the preceding week had cleared several of the heavy criminal cases. There have been only minor civil cases reached yet, with the usual number of continuances. Following is the

GRAND JURY.

J. T. Spurlin, foreman; Brad Noffsinger, J. C. Gary, D. W. Rhoades, Will Rhoades, Joe Armstrong, T. C. Baird, Fred Halliday, J. B. Gill, A. G. Hanly, John W. Stewart, R. W. Casebier.

Messrs. John Stokes and Hugh Jernigan, of Albuquerque, N. M., are spending a few days here with relatives and friends. They brought the body of Mr. Fred M. Stokes here for burial, the interment being made in the family lot in Evergreen cemetery at 3 o'clock Sunday afternoon, following a service at the home of Mr. Robert Wickliffe.

Masonic Lodge Social Gathering

Pond River Lodge No. 244, F. A. A. M., will have a social entertainment at its lodge hall on the evening of Friday, May 10, beginning at 8 o'clock. All local Masons, and members at other points, with their wives are invited to be present. There will be some talks, refreshments will be served, and a general good time is assured all who come.

The committees are making arrangements along all lines, and nothing will be left undone that will contribute to the success of the affair.

Hon. R. A. Thomas, Jr., M. C., has been here from Washington for a few days, on business. It is not likely that Mr. Thomas will have opposition for renomination, and his election is practically assured.

Mr. Arthur Howard, of Martwick, spent a few days here during the week.

The new Catholic church at Central City is nearing completion, and will be one of the finest structures in this section of country.

Mr. W. O. Richards, representing the Columbia Phonograph Co., was here from Cincinnati last week, calling on his trade.

The waters of the Ohio and Mississippi valleys are slowly receding, but it will be many weeks before the covered land is all cleared of this destructive element.

You won't buy anything else, if you see the Kirsch curtain rods at Roark's.

Regular term of circuit court is now in full swing.

The ice plant was started for the season Tuesday, but it will be about a week until the 1912 pattern will be on sale. The stored stock of last season was exhausted some time ago, but manager Gilman has been getting ice from Central City.

Best one ever made—the Kirsch curtain rods. Roark has a large line.
